AN INVISIBLE ALLY IN WAR ON CRIME

Police issue forensic kits to residents deemed most at risk from burglars

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS who are most at risk of having their Haringey homes burgled are to be supplied with a special forensic-based kit free of charge by police as part of an innovative scheme aimed at cutting the number of break-ins.

The latest figures available show a small drop in the number of residential burglaries in the borough in the 12-month period up to April this year, with 2,105 reported offences.

But haringey still has one of the highest rates in the capital.

Areas notorious as burglary hotspots, such as Muswell Hill, Crouch End and Haringay, are set to receive 14,000 special property marker kits over the next three years as part of the Met Police-wide scheme.

Made by SmartWater Technologies, each uses a liquid, which is undetectable to the human eye, can only be seen under ultra-violet light and is virtually impossible to remove.

It allows home owners to mark their valuable possessions with a unique forensic code, enabling police to trace the items and link suspects to the crime scene should they be stolen.

Officers from Haringey's Met Trace team began delivering the equipment, which includes stickers warning burglars an item has been tagged with the solution, to homes in Haringay Gardens, Haringay, last Friday.

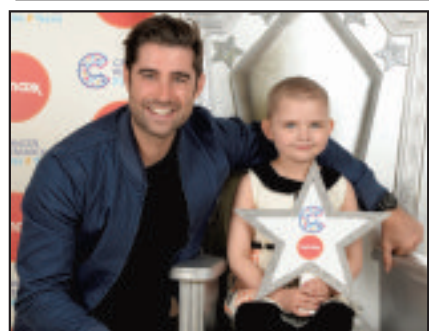

Borough police commander Chief Superintendent Victor Olisa said: "The Met Trace initiative is a fantastic programme that will enable us to prevent people's homes being broken into."

"It will provide reassurance to home-holders in Haringey and will be a warning to burglars that you will not profit from your crimes."

"I am really pleased that we will be one of the first boroughs to benefit from this programme and the residents of Haringey should hopefully feel that bit safer in their homes."

Providing reassurance: Haringey borough police chief Victor Olisa

Brave: Claudia Wright with television presenter Matt Johnson

Brave Claudia's big day out

THE bravery of four-year-old Claudia Wright, who is undergoing treatment for cancer, was hailed at a star-studded celebrity bash to salute the courage of all youngsters coping with the disease.

Claudia, from Tottenham Lane, Crouch End, who has been diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukaemia, was one of 20 children across the UK who attended the space-themed Cancer Research UK Kids and Teens Star Awards Party, held in partnership with fashion retailer TK Maxx, at the Rooftop Gardens in Kensington.

It was organised to raise awareness of the charity's groundbreaking work in the field of childhood cancer research and the urgent need to boost funds.

The day was rounded off with entertainment from CBeebies favourite Mr Maker and a special performance from X Factor stars Only The Young.

Claudia's mum Anna Melville-James, said:

"It's important to celebrate the bravery of the children and the bravery of the whole family. They were able to meet other children who have had similar experiences. It's lovely to switch off from all of the hospital visits and treatments and just watch Claudia running around and having fun just like any other girl."

Claudia, who was diagnosed with her illness shortly after her fourth birthday, found the initial chemotherapy difficult, put on a lot of weight and became depressed due to the heavy steroids. She was also unable to walk for a few months.

"It was a far cry from the positive, lively little girl she had been before," added Anna. "However, thankfully she responded very well to treatment and things lightened considerably after that with only one other three-week stay in hospital for a chest infection."

Claudia is now on maintenance treatment and is at school. She has also started horse riding and loves being in the saddle.

Duggan family call for inquiry

FAMILY, friends and supporters of Mark Duggan, whose death sparked the 2011 riots, have called for a judge-led inquiry into policing in Britain.

The 29-year-old was shot twice by police firearms officers in Ferry Lane, Tottenham Hale, in August four years ago after they had stopped the minicab he was in on suspicion that he had an illegal gun.

A three-year investigation by the Independent Police Complaints Commission cleared armed officers of wrongdoing in March.

A packed meeting at North London Community Centre, in Moorefield Road, Tottenham, on Sunday demanded a public inquiry to look into the handling of the Duggan case and others by Operation Trident, which investigates gun crime in London's black communities.

Rapper's death: man charged

A 36-YEAR-old man appeared in court on Monday charged with the murder of rapper Lukey Maxwell, 22, who was found collapsed with a stab wound in Northumberland Park Avenue, Tottenham, in the early hours of Friday morning.

Arthur Gorol, of Hoddesdon, Hertfordshire, was remanded in custody at Hendon Magistrates' Court.

Two men in their 30s, one in his 40s and one in his 50s, as well as two women both aged in their 40s, all of whom were arrested on Friday in relation to the incident, have been released.

Residents take on developers

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS have launched a bid to stop a development in a conservation area in the heart of the borough.

Residents of Essex Road are furious that a property developer is trying to build a four-bedroom house on a chunk of protected land between Walsingham Road and Enfield Town Park, even though the last attempt to build there was defeated in the High Court.

The saga began in 2010 when an initial bid for planning permission was rejected by council chiefs.

However, in 2014, when the developer Kevin Patrick Fitzgerald applied for permission to build on the land for a second time, permission was granted by the council's planning committee.

Residents of Essex Road, which backs on to Walsingham Road and is governed by the same rules of the conservation area, were so incensed by the decision that they brought a judicial review against the local authority.

And in February this year the residents were vindicated when a High Court judge upheld every aspect of their grievance, ordered the council to pay all the costs of the claimants' case and quashed the 2014 decision to grant planning permission for the development.

"It was primarily that the council had given planning permission to a building in a conservation area that neither enhanced it or preserved it," Essex Road resident Sarah Carrington told the Advertiser.

"In fact, the judge agreed with our argument that the development would detract from the conservation area," she added.

Despite the setbacks, the developer has applied for planning permission from the council for a third time and the case is due to be put before the planning committee at the end of this month.

Already the residents are preparing their case.

Richard Berndes, whose house backs directly on to the proposed development site, is perplexed by the proposal.

"Having played around here as a child and now having children of my own, I know that the pathway beside this development on the way into the park is considered by most people as part of the park," he said.

"The whole corner is a no-parking zone and from a traffic point of view the idea of having a new driveway there would be a total nightmare."

The chairwoman of the Friends of Enfield Town Park Noelle Skivington agreed, adding: "That corner of Walsingham Avenue is essentially an entrance to the park and I know that children run in and out of the park along the quiet pathway that links the corner of Walsingham Avenue and the park gate. It is a blind corner, so it is highly dangerous to put a driveway there."

Blot on the landscape?: Sarah Carrington and Richard Berndes in front of the site of the proposed building

Mr Berndes added that one of the reasons all the residents had moved to the area was because of the atmosphere and look of the neighbourhood, where they are not even permitted to change their windows without express permission from the local authority.

The application to build the four-bed home on 450 square metres of land property will be put before the council's planning committee on June 30 in Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street.

Men face charges in connection with Hatton Garden jewel heist

THREE Enfield men facing charges in connection with the multi-million-pound Hatton Garden jewel heist, which took place over the Easter weekend, appeared in court on Friday via a video link.

Hugh Doyle, 48, of Riverside Gardens, Enfield, Terry Perkins, 67, of Heene Road, Enfield, and Daniel

Jones, 58, of Park Avenue, Bush Hill Park, are all accused of conspiracy to burgle Hatton Garden Safe Deposit between April 1 and April 7, 2015, and conspiracy to launder the proceeds of crime between April 1 and May 19, 2015.

The three appeared via the video link from Belmarsh Prison together with John Harbinson, 42, from Benfleet, Essex, Carl Wood, 58, of Elderbeck Close, Cheshunt, Brian Reader, 76, and Paul Reader, 50, both from Dartford, Kent, William Lincoln, 59, from Bethnal Green, east London, and John Collins, 74, from Islington, north London, for a preliminary hearing.

The defendants sat in rows of three in booths for the video link before Judge Alistair McCreath, sitting at Southwark Crown Court, and were remanded in custody.

The case is scheduled for a mention on June 17 at Southwark and a plea and case management hearing on September 4.

School's tea dance is fun for young and old

PUPILS joined the conga line as an Enfield primary school threw a tea dance for old folk last week.

It was just part of the fun enjoyed by both young and old at the over-60s tea dance, organised by the Parents' Forum at Suffolk School, in Brick Lane.

The parents, together with pupils and staff, raised the money for the event – the forum's first – with the proceeds of a cake sale at the school.

The event last Friday was a resounding success, with the school breaking out its best china tea service for its guests.

Pupils entertained them with a Gangsta Granny dance, based on the children's book, before everyone took to the dance floor.

The youngsters also sat at the tables and chatted with their elderly guests, several of whom had attended the school themselves half a century ago.

And old albums of photographs of the school kept both past and present-day pupils fascinated.

"The forum wanted to get the school involved and doing something for the local community and came up with the idea for a tea dance," said head-teacher Andrea Cassius.

"They distributed invitations by leafleting the local area. The school is under-represented by over-60s and we don't have many grannies or grandads of the children involved, so this was a way of connecting with them. It is something the forum is now intending staging every year."

Oh, what a night

ALTHOUGH it might feel as if the summer sun is yet to get into full swing, a group of thespians will be hoping the skies stay clear as they embark on their annual festival of Shakespeare in the park.

Principal Theatre Company will be launching its season with a production of classic comedy Twelfth Night.

The tale of cross-dressing and crossed wires will be performed under the summer sun at the Old Ashmolean rugby ground, in The Bourne, Southgate, from Wednesday and Paul Gladwin, the company's artistic director is urging residents to take the rare chance to combine fresh air and culture.

"Twelfth Night was recently voted Shakespeare's funniest comedy," he said.

"Our production is set in 1666 on the day that England won the World Cup.

"With 18 actors playing guitars and different instruments, we bring the story to life for all ages."

The production will be directed by Christopher Geelan and Paul says that the Old Ashmolean grounds, near The Priory Hospital, is the perfect location for the tale of twins separated by a shipwreck.

The production runs until June 20 at the rugby ground before transferring to Forty Hall, in Enfield, from July 9 to 18. The run will finish up at Coram's Fields, in Guilford Street, Bloomsbury, from July 23 to August 8.

Tickets can be booked by logging on to the box office at www.millfieldartscentre.co.uk or by calling 020 8807 6680.

Just a minute! Parsons is backing Chickenshed

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

LEGENDARY veteran presenter Nicholas Parsons, who for 48 years has been the debonair host of popular radio show Just A Minute, will be speaking without repetition, deviation or hesitation when he brings his one-man show to Southgate's Chickenshed Theatre.

At 91 years old and after nearly seven decades in show business, he shows no sign of slowing down.

A household name presenting Sale of the Century and other quiz shows and playing straight man to comedy greats such as Benny Hill, his Just a Laugh a Minute show on Sunday, June 21, will be packed with hilarious anecdotes.

And the inclusive theatre, in Chase Side, will benefit from his generosity because as a keen supporter of all it does, he is kindly donating all proceeds from the show to Chickenshed.

Chickenshed's Susan Jamson said: "We are delighted to welcome such a legend and are deeply appreciative at his gesture to donate proceeds to the theatre."

Besides stories of his glittering career and those he has worked with, from Kenneth Williams to Paul Merton, there will also be the chance for the audience to ask him questions. He is also a gifted mimic and impressionist, recreating some of the personalities involved.

"There will also be a book signing and a chance to get his autograph after the show," added Susan. Tickets cost £20 and £15 concessions. The box office can be contacted on 020 8292 9222, by email at bookings@Chickenshed.org.uk and online at www.chickenshed.org.uk

FAMILIES enjoyed exploring the grounds of historic Forty Hall as it welcomed visitors to its Big Sunday celebration.

The event coincided with the national

Big Lunch day, which encourages people to get together and enjoy tucking into food at community events.

It was also the same day as the countrywide Open Farm Sunday, so people had the chance to look round the estate's farm, see some of the farm animals and discover more about the produce grown on the estate.

Visitors also enjoyed listening to music, sports and historic games at the hall in Forty Hill, Enfield.

The hall also hosted a craft fair and guests enjoyed browsing round stalls and chatting to craftsmen and women.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

Burrowes elected to the 1922 committee

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ONE side effect of Nick de Bois's defeat in the Enfield North constituency in last month's general election is that it created a vacancy on a powerful committee of parliamentary backbenchers.

The Conservatives' 1922 committee is made up of backbench MPs and Mr de Bois was at the heart of this influential group.

However, after Mr de Bois's narrow defeat to Joan Ryan, David Burrowes, the MP for Enfield Southgate, has been elected to the committee.

The committee is seen as a barometer of rank-and-file Tory feeling and ferment in its ranks is seen as a sign that trouble needs to be seen off before backbenchers revolt.

Mr Burrowes has been elected as an executive member of the committee after serving as Tory MP for Enfield Southgate for a decade since.

Following his election to the group, he said: "I am delighted to be elected to the executive of the 1922 committee.

"This is an important time for parliament with a newly-elected Conservative government, but a small majority.

"There are key issues around membership of the EU, a fair devolution settlement and fulfilling our pledge to be a One Nation government, which needs a strong voice from the backbenches.

"I look forward to being that strong voice

One of Mr Burrowes's highest profile campaigns to date was his leading role in the campaign to oppose the legalising of same-sex marriage – a stance that alienated even some close to him in politics, which could stand him in good stead with the committee's rebellious, non-conformist ethos.

On the committee: Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes

£200,000 project to tackle park pollution

Conservationists toast Pymmes plan

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

BIRDS, bees, frogs and dragonflies will be dropping by an Edmonton park on a regular basis this summer as hundreds of thousands of pounds are ploughed into a new pollution-busting wetlands site.

After two decades of foul sewage and human waste clogging up the lake in Pymmes Park, Thames Water and Enfield Council have decided to stop the stink through a combination of tackling shoddy plumbing and creating a £200,000 scheme whereby water flowing into the Pymmes Park lake from a pipe in nearby Denton Road will be purified by the park's reeds and marshes.

Due to an estimated 8,000 local misconnections, with wastewater pipes being wrongly connected to a surface water drain, raw sewage had been flowing into the lake – wreaking havoc with ecosystems as well as making the park a thoroughly unpleasant place for visitors.

The problem became so bad that Thames Water was forced to stop the flow of one of the lake's feeder pipes (that should have funnelled overflow rainwater into the lake) away from the park entirely.

Thames Water then embarked on a large-scale crackdown on plumbing in the area – in the end fixing 300 misconnections. Once that was completed, the pipe was directed back into the lake – and Thames Water, working with the local authority, developed the idea of purging remaining pollutants from the water by passing it through the natural purifiers of reed beds and marshes.

"The wetlands take out any residual pollution that might be in the water – it just sort of polishes it really," explained Ian Russell, the council's principal engineer in the structures and water courses team.

"It's just helping to clean it a little bit more. Plants can use the nutrients in the water to grow. Bacteria that lives on the roots of the reeds breaks down the pollution as well."

The project is a joint investment between the council and Thames Water and the cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson has defended the spending on the project at a time when so much else is being axed as a result of funding cuts.

"This is a capital project," he said. "We're spending £2million on the parks. That's capital funding and these are things you have to do to maintain the beauty of our parks."

Stressing that the council was committed to maintaining parks, Mr Anderson added: "This park does require some investment and it is in a poor part of the borough."

"It's very important that parks are not neglected even in times of austerity and we have to ensure sufficient funds."

"This is a project which will benefit wildlife and that's important as well."

Former chairwoman of the Friends of Pymmes Park Theresa Lefley, who has campaigned against the persistent pollution, welcomed the official launch of the wetlands project last week.

"The friends' group has been campaigning for something to be done for 19 years," she said.

"This wetlands idea seems to have been successful in a lot of parks, so I hope it does work."

Charity aims to support patients

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW charity offering pampering and comfort to hospital patients has been launched by cupcake-toting volunteers.

The Chase Farm Charity was formally launched at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, last week and it is hoped it will help provide comfort and support to patients throughout their stay in the hospital.

The charity is a new arm of the Royal Free Charity, the organisation which raises funds for the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, in Hampstead, which took over the running of Chase Farm last year.

Bosses at the launch on Wednesday stressed that all money raised by the Chase Farm Charity will go directly towards helping patients in the hospital – and it will share the ethos of its parent organisation in providing added comfort and support to patients in the hospital.

“The NHS provides the chair and we provide the cushion,” the chief executive of the Royal Free Charity Chris Burghes told the Advertiser when asked if the charity was providing services that the NHS should be carrying out as routine. “We do not have to do what the NHS is legally required to do,” he added, explaining that the massage therapies offered by a team of trained therapists at the Royal Free and providing slippers to older patients were examples of the way the charity works to improve the overall well-being of patients during a hospital stay.

Much of the Chase Farm site is earmarked for demolition to make way for a major rebuild and Mr Burghes insisted that the work would be precisely the time when volunteers would be of most use as they would be able to help patients navigate the site as the extensive redevelopment takes place.

A passionate advocate of the benefit of the “added extras” the charity can provide is Keith Hunt, complimentary therapy co-ordinator for the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, whose massage team is funded through the charity.

He told the Advertiser: “We describe the work we do with patients as a treat, not a treatment. The very specialised, gentle work we do with patients, particularly the elderly, provides comfort. Every consultant in the hospital refers patients to us as they can see the benefits.”

In addition to the Chase Farm Charity, there will be a Barnet Hospital Charity dedicated to raising funds for the neighbouring hospital.

Anyone who would like to help the charity can log on to www.royalfreecharity.org/events

Hone your ball skills at free football sessions

BUDDING Harry Kanes can brush up on their soccer skills with a series of free coaching sessions every Saturday in the grounds of Enfield's Forty Hall estate, in Forty Hill.

The sessions run until Saturday, August 1, and are aimed at young people aged 12 to 16 years living in the borough.

The sessions are being delivered in partnership with Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, Enfield

Council and the council's leisure and culture team. "This is the perfect opportunity for young people from the borough who are passionate about football to get active in the beautiful surroundings at Forty Hall and improve their soccer skills," said Yasemin Brett, the cabinet member for community organisations and culture.

The sessions take place every Saturday from 12.30 to 2.30pm.

Bodybuilder Darren gets set for lift-off

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE discipline of hours of gruelling training sessions and eschewing McDonald's in favour of protein shakes means one fitness buff in the borough is preparing to jet off to the United States to compete on an international stage.

Darren Johnson, 27, of Chester Gardens, Ponders End, is to compete in Miami next week after a blistering series of wins in body-building competitions in the UK.

The personal trainer and supervisor of a GNC supplement store has slogged for years to achieve the muscle definition and symmetry demanded at the highest level of body-building competitions.

Describing his rise to the top of his game, he said: "I had been training on and off for about six years and it is only two years ago that I decided to make it my passion.

"I had always had other people training in the gym telling me that I had a good body and that I should start competing.

"And so in November 2014 I trained solidly for 12 weeks by myself, by researching diet and training tips and a fair bit of trial and error.

"I entered into my first competition in November 2014 and won my class in the fitness division. I then won the overall title at that competition which meant I was then officially classed in the provision."

Then in April he competed again, winning the chance to represent the UK at a body-building competition in Miami where he will compete with as many as 500 other hopefuls from all over the world hoping to be crowned muscle king.

Darren's determination to succeed in the highly competitive world of body-building was prompted by the loss of his father, who was himself a keen athlete.

"I was brought up to see activity and training as just a part of life.

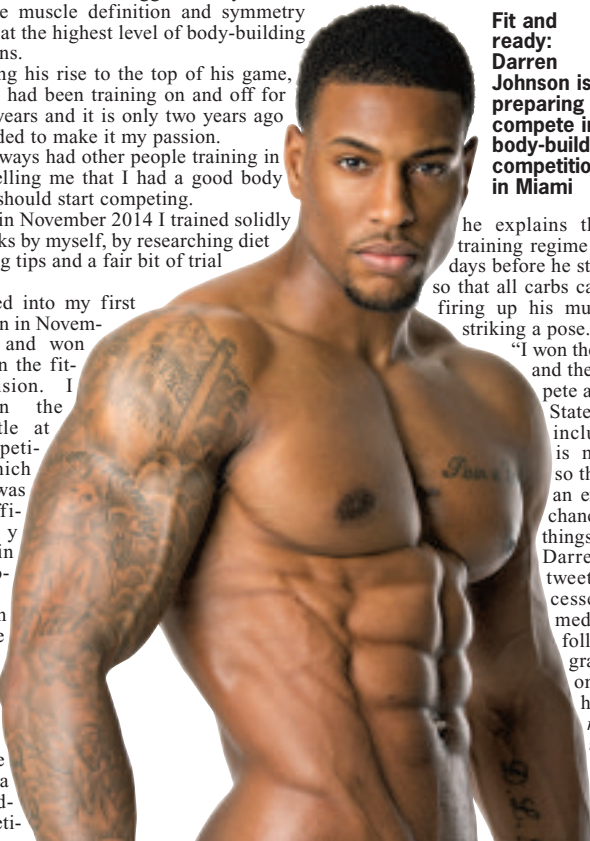

"I remember my dad's trophy cabinet and he and my mum were always training for some event or physical test so it felt really natural to want to emulate that and do something that he

Fit and ready: Darren Johnson is preparing to compete in a body-building competition in Miami

he explains that his intense training regime has to stop two days before he steps out on stage so that all carbs can go straight to firing up his muscles ready for striking a pose.

"I won the flight out there and the chance to compete and I think in the States everything – including training – is more extreme – so the way I see it is an experience and a chance to learn new things."

Darren will be tweeting his successes on social media and can be followed on Instagram as Darren_J, on Twitter where he tweets as Darren_Physique and on Facebook as Darren Johnson Fit & PT

SINCE I last wrote we have had the general election, with a majority Conservative government and confirmation that the way forward will be savings and austerity in public services.

There will be a significant challenge for policing to continue to reduce crime and the budget. Already the Met is looking at future modelling to ensure we continue to deliver the best service for the people of London.

I hosted the borough commander's commendation ceremony at the Dugdale Centre, in Enfield Town, where we celebrated the brave and committed work of Enfield officers, with some outstanding examples of officers putting the safety of the public first. These included officers intervening after a man had been attacked by a dog, officers jumping into water to save a man who later died despite the best efforts of the officers who gave CPR and officers who attended the scene of a fatal road traffic accident, managing the scene and securing vital evidence.

Enfield has become one of the London's Met Trace boroughs. This is a burglary initiative and involves us delivering traceable liquids, used for property marking, to the highest burglary wards in the borough. You'll see street signs on lampposts in the areas we're targeting. Evidence shows that this is an effective tactic and Enfield has been selected for early roll-out as we have some of the highest burglary numbers in London.

A small team of officers and PCSOs will be hand-delivering SmartWater kits and marking property with residents. We'll also be updating information about neighbourhood activity and encouraging residents to join Neighbourhood Watch. There will be regular updates about Met Trace on Twitter at @MPSEnfield

Not a tradition, just horrendous cruelty to dogs

DOG lovers will be horrified to learn of the needless slaughter and mass consumption of thousands of animals at an annual event in the Chinese city of Yulin around the summer solstice on June 21.

Some of those dogs could even be someone's pet that has been stolen.

Others have been rounded up as strays.

In the weeks before, many thousands of dogs are reportedly transported huge distances in cramped cages, without food and water, to await their horrific fate.

Dogs are reportedly electrocuted and skinned alive, then hung upside down, beaten and left to bleed to death, all apparently in front of other dogs awaiting their own slaughter.

This is not an ancient cultural tradition. This has only been happening in Yulin for the past few years and was established for economic and tourism purposes.

Please help us in our efforts to ban this horrendous slaughter of dogs by adding your name to our letter addressed to the British ambassador in China (online at: <http://bit.ly/1cyYAGN>).

Policing the night Tube will be a real challenge

THE announcement from the British Transport Police that they will deploy 100 additional officers to cover the night Tube when it starts is greatly welcome.

While 100 police officers is a significant amount, when they are divided into teams and asked to cover 144 stations, there is a real risk that they may be stretched, particularly when many of these officers are to be based at key inner London stations.

The night Tube will be great for Londoners, but it's important it's done safely.

We know that policing will be a big challenge, particularly given the serious rise in the number of assaults on staff in recent years, many fuelled by late-night alcohol.

Transport for London and British Transport Police have to be sure that passengers and staff are safe on the Tube, on the platform and around the station.

The prospect of single-staffed stations late at night is also a concern and I raised this at the Mayor of London Question Time last month.

I have asked the mayor to ensure that there is no single staffing, particularly in outer London boroughs when the night Tube is operating.

Passengers need to know that there will be a good staff presence at all stations, supported by British Transport Police. Having only one isolated member of staff at a station will not achieve that.

A vital new piece of kit

POLICE on the beat in Enfield will soon be getting a great new piece of kit, the body-worn camera.

The mayor's recent announcement of 20,000 cameras for the Metropolitan Police will herald one of the biggest changes in policing in recent history.

Trials in Britain have shown that these cameras help reduce cost, save time, cut complaints and improve accountability.

This technology helps to remove any "grey area".

Troublemakers will no longer be able to make false accusations about the police.

It also means that the police have more time on the beat. Instead of an officer writing a lengthy description of an incident, they can submit the footage as evidence that speaks for itself. It not only saves the officer's time, it saves the courts time as cases are more cut and dry.

But don't worry: you can still approach a bobby and have a private conversation as the cameras are only turned on when an incident takes place.

The next step is to get these cameras to our other front-line workers. A report, Risky Business: Protecting Front-line Workers From Attack While On Duty, showed that nurses, doctors, paramedics, rail staff, bus drivers and others are being attacked on a daily basis.

Body-worn cameras would help protect the very people who are working to make our lives better.

We are here to help you learn to live with diabetes

IN Diabetes Week (June 14-20), Diabetes UK would like to remind people living with the condition that they are not alone when it comes to managing their illness.

We are here to help and there are lots of ways we can offer support.

Many people who have just been diagnosed with diabetes or are living with the condition can feel overwhelmed and very concerned by the possibility of life-altering complications.

But strong evidence shows that once equipped with the knowledge and skills to manage their condition effectively, people with diabetes can improve their quality of life and reduce their risk of developing complications.

Access to support and education services helps people to increase their confidence in managing diabetes.

We also know one size doesn't fit all, which is why we offer support in lots of different ways.

For example, at our free Living with Diabetes Days, health professionals deliver expert workshops and information is given about the practical elements of living with Type 2 diabetes, such as diet, exercise and driving.

If you prefer to learn online, our informal online course, Type 2 Diabetes and Me, helps people with Type 2 diabetes to understand and manage the condition.

If you prefer to pick up the phone, our Careline offers a confidential helpline staffed by professional counsellors who have extensive knowledge of diabetes.

We also have peer support and online communities and brilliant care events for young people with Type 1 diabetes, all of which offer the chance to learn from others.

Find out more about the support, advice and education Diabetes UK offers at www.diabetes.org.uk/diabetesweek

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Eagles box clever to win prestigious volunteer prize

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

VOLUNTEERS who help young people in Edmonton learn to box have been recognised by a major award.

Edmonton Eagles Amateur Boxing Club is just one of seven winners of a Queen's Award for Voluntary Service in London this year.

The award is dubbed "the MBE for groups" and recognises their contributions to their communities.

The club was founded by Penny Efsthathiou in 2004 in response to a series of fatal knife attacks. She decided to use sport to give young people a positive way of changing their lives.

It started with just two evening sessions a week at Claverings Community Centre, in Montagu Road, and has grown into a six-day-a-week operation.

Coach Kyri Yiallouris said: "We keep it low-cost. There's no membership fee. We provide all the gloves and the pads and we have a number of free sessions."

These days the team of 17 volunteers help train 250 people a week at the club's gym at the Heart of Edmonton Recreation Centre in Montagu Recreation Ground, in addition to training sessions at schools.

More volunteers help out at the free shows the club runs.

Head coach Kostakis Evangelou said: "We see the positive impact of the club. It raises self-esteem, discipline, it gives them life skills."

He added: "The award is recognition and encourages everyone so the hard work that we do is not unnoticed. Some of the people whom we coach go into coaching themselves."

□ A charity which empowers adults with learning difficulties to get involved in community life in Enfield has also won royal recognition.

One-to-One has been given the award for its work supporting people to gain self-confidence and speak out about issues which they care about.

The charity is based in Fore Street, Edmonton, and was set up in 1997 as a user-led group with its 500 members determining its work.

Members are also involved in running the office and serving as trustees. It offers training and gets members involved in volunteering in Enfield.

Many of the team of more than 80 volunteers have learning difficulties and help their peers get out and about in the community.

The work includes befriending people and enjoying social activities including trips to the cinema, pub and seaside.

The charity also runs education sessions to help improve the health of people with learning difficulties and a team of 14 maintain a community vegetable plot together with the Friends of Bush Hill Park.

One-to-One also runs training courses including schemes to develop sports coaching, first aid and food hygiene skills.

Chief executive Lesley Walls said the award is a "great honour".

"I hope this will help us raise awareness of our aims and encourage local people and organisations to support us," she said.

The award will be presented later this summer and the charity is planning to celebrate at a garden party.

Council launches fly-tipping 'bounty'

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are being offered rewards to help the council track down and prosecute fly-tippers to stop them creating grot spots in Enfield.

A £200 reward for anyone who provides information leading to successful prosecutions has been offered by Enfield Council in a bid to clamp down on the problem.

The council spends about £4.3million a year on street cleansing, with four full-time fly-tipping removal teams dedicated to clearing up rubbish dumped around the borough.

It aims to remove rubbish within four hours from the time it is reported and has to deal with several thousand incidents every year, a spokesman said.

Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for environment, said: "We have an elective responsibility as a community to keep our borough clean and we all need to play our part in making sure it stays tidy.

"That's why we want residents to join forces with us and name names. We want them to help us to expose those who are fouling our environment by fly-tipping on our streets and parklands, and the best way of reporting fly-tips is through our website.

"By working together we can track down and prosecute those people intent on ruining our environment and also make sure that fly-tips that do occur are reported and removed promptly."

Suspected fly-tippers can be reported at enviro.crime@enfield.gov.uk and details of any grot spots and other street cleansing issues can be logged at www.enfield.gov.uk/report

Rewards will be paid to residents after a successful prosecution and people are being encouraged to tweet under the hashtag #keepingenfieldclean

Residents hoping that road will be right up their street

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A STREET in Bowes Park could get a new lease of life after a campaign group published the results of a survey of shopping habits in their neighbourhood.

The survey by the We Love Myddleton Road group polled 566 residents and shows the frustrations of those whose chances of shopping locally are hampered by empty units and tatty store fronts.

The report reveals that most families and residents living around Myddleton Road largely do their weekly shopping outside the area – with 28 per cent doing most of it online – while the average household in the area spends only £9 a week on groceries from Myddleton Road. It also emerges that 71 per cent of people feel that the road “doesn’t have the right shops” to attract them. The report’s authors reveal that 43 per cent of residents are put off from shopping in the street because of “unattractive shop fronts” and a 36 per cent cite the lack of a free cash machine.

However, the street, which straddles the borough boundary with Haringey, has seen something of a renaissance with The Step cafe proving a hit.

“Among local residents, over half mentioned The Step as a reason to visit Myddleton Road for the first time” the report states.

In fact, 80 per cent of respondents said that the road had “got better” over the past two years and the main things people responded to positively were its “friendliness, sense of community and the fact that shops are independent businesses”.

Mat Riches, owner of The Step, feels that the responses to the survey could pave the way for businesses and council bosses to see the road’s potential. “We know all our customers, we value them and it creates a sense of community,” he told the Advertiser.

“The great thing about this survey is that the We Love Myddleton Road group have done such a professional job. They have treated this in a really professional way, which shows businesses there is money to be made if they set up on the road,” Mr Riches added.

Richard McKeever, one of the members of the campaign group and the founder of community forum Bowes and Bounds Connected, says that, with the hard figures now in black and white, businesses will see the potential of the area.

“There is evidence there is enough local will to support a high street that will generate income and hopefully this will encourage people to open shops and businesses on the road,” he said.

Crash scene: The car on its roof near the railway bridge over Windmill Hill

Search for driver after car flips over

POLICE were still searching this week for a driver who fled after his car overturned following a collision in a busy Enfield road last Thursday.

The silver Vauxhall Zafira is believed to have struck bollards and flipped over on to its roof before ramming a silver Peugeot in Windmill Hill. Nobody was injured in the smash close to Enfield Chase railway station.

The incident caused major traffic disruption with police diversions in operation until the car was removed.

A nearby office worker, who didn’t want to be named, said: “I heard loud bangs and looked out of the window in the immediate aftermath.

“It appears the vehicle had come round the corner and hit the bollards, and then overturned shunting into the back of another car. It’s a miracle no one was more seriously hurt.”

A police spokesman said: “No arrests have been made and inquiries are continuing.”

New MP speaks up for Edmonton

THE borough's newest MP last week told her peers that she is "most honoured and proud" to be the first woman representative for her constituency.

Delivering her maiden speech in the House of Commons on Tuesday, the Labour and Co-operative MP for Edmonton Kate Osamor paid tribute to the long line of men who had preceded her in representing the constituency and added: "I have broken that tradition (of men serving as the area's MP) as the first woman to represent Edmonton. I feel most honoured and proud of the responsibility bestowed upon me."

As well as telling fellow MPs about the established history of her constituency, with its listed buildings and conservation areas, including Fore Street, she told her colleagues of the challenges facing her constituents after the industry that once employed thousands of locals was stripped away in the later part of the 20th century.

She said: "Much of the industry for which Edmonton was famous – furniture making, electrical goods and electronics – has disappeared or moved to greenfield sites. We do not have one dominant employer to bring an end to adult worklessness in Edmonton, but despite the lack of low-skilled jobs on offer, Edmonton has a growing entrepreneurial spirit."

She also said that the area had undergone dramatic social changes in the last few decades.

"Since the 1960s, Edmonton has been transformed from a predominantly white, working-class industrial suburb into a multicultural area through Commonwealth immigration, asylum seekers and the expansion of the European Union in May 2004," she said.

Ms Osamor was elected in May with 61.4 per cent share of the vote. She is not only the first woman to represent the constituency, but also the first person from an ethnic minority elected to the mainly safe Labour seat.

She joins a total of 41 MPs of black or ethnic minority origin in the Commons.

"GOLF CLUB EDITORIAL" Good News!

Just in time for the summer months, Enfield Golf Club is pleased to announce that all major improvement works have now been completed. Over the past couple of years, we have worked hard to improve the drainage of the course and therefore increase its playability throughout the winter months – so, no more flooding and course closures. In addition to redesigned and new bunkers, this will result in a much better playing experience for both members and guests.

The course is just a 'stone's throw' from the centre of Enfield Town and, this year, we have been selected by the Jamega Pro Tour to host one of their very prestigious 2 day tour events and Pro-Am competitions. The Pro-Am is on Sunday 23rd August and is open to club golfers of all abilities – each team entered will be joined by a top Jamega Tour Pro.

Generally, the Club has much to offer. "We have the reputation of being a very friendly and inclusive Club both in terms of members, events and facilities" said Kim Wild, Club Chairman, "We have a very diverse and vibrant membership with something for everyone, whether you're a beginner, a scratch player or just looking to visit as a guest".

Our Junior Section in particular has proved to be a leader in providing a development path for youngsters of all ages. In fact, one past Junior member who turned professional last year, has so far won four European competitions.

So, why not come along and see for yourself what we have to offer.

Enfield Golf Club

WE ARE PLEASED TO ANNOUNCE THAT ALL MAJOR WORKS AND COURSE IMPROVEMENTS ARE NOW FINISHED! SO WHY NOT COME ALONG AND SEE FOR YOURSELF?

Signing to mark Magna Carta's 800th anniversary

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

"KING John," resplendent in crown and royal regalia, will sign the Magna Carta in Enfield next week in a special re-enactment of the historic event.

Chase Green Memorial Gardens, off Chase Side, will double as Runnymede, in Surrey, where the original charter was signed as Enfield Council commemorates the 800th anniversary of the creation of the document which has become a symbol of liberty.

The event is one of two being held in the borough to mark the signing of the peace treaty between the unpopular monarch and rebellious barons back in 1215.

Today the document is seen as the cornerstone of the development of constitutional law and the guarantor of cherished freedoms.

The re-enactment at 2pm on Monday will be followed by the launch of photo, art and poetry competitions for all ages themed around the Magna Carta and liberty with cash prizes for the winners.

And on Saturday, July 11, at 6.30pm, an evening of poetry and music on the themes of liberty and personal freedom, led by local poet John Murray, will be held at Enfield's Jacobean mansion, Forty Hall, in Forty Hill.

With poems, songs, and instrumental works ranging from Shakespeare, Milton, and George Herbert, to the modern age, it promises to be a fascinating and entertaining evening.

Achilleas Georgiou, the deputy leader of the council, said: "The Magna Carta is such an important historical event that we really want to bring heritage alive for residents. We hope that these exciting events, all based on the signing of the Magna Carta, will do this.

"We especially hope for a good turnout at the re-enactment on June 15 and urge people to get involved with the photo, art and poetry competitions. We want everyone to get involved so that older residents and newcomers share common pride in local history."

A FESTIVAL celebrating the lives of two of Edmonton's most creative former residents kicked off at the weekend.

Brother and sister Charles and Mary Lamb were London literary heavyweights when they lived in the parish of Edmonton in the 1830s.

Mary Lamb suffered from psychiatric illnesses throughout her life and moved to a psychiatric home in the area in 1833.

Her brother, who had been her main carer throughout her life, also moved to the area to remain close to her.

The siblings never married and were close throughout their lives, even after Mary, in a period of mental breakdown, stabbed their mother to death in 1796.

The Lambs were at the heart of the 19th century literary scene and counted William and Dorothy Wordsworth among their friends.

Together they published Tales from Shakespeare, a collection of stories from The Bard retold for young people.

Mary is seen as producing an early economic argument against the subjugation of women when she published the critically acclaimed essay On Needlework.

The pair are buried together in the graveyard of All Saints Church in Church Street, Edmonton – and for the second year in a row the vicar of the church, Father Stuart Owen, has organised a free arts festival to celebrate their lives and remind the community of Edmonton's place on the artistic map.

"Every event in the festival is free to give people the chance to come along and try something they maybe wouldn't usually do," Father Owen told the Advertiser.

The vicar explained that contrary to some people's assumptions about the area, Edmonton has been a key player in the country's cultural scene with romantic poet John Keats also living in the area at one time.

Stub out your cigs, pupils ask parents

Children launch campaign aimed at stopping smoking at the school gates

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

CHILDREN are taking action in a bid to stop parents smoking at the school gate.

Pupils at Carterhatch Junior and Infants School are the first in the borough to ask parents and visitors to avoid smoking just outside the school, in Carterhatch Lane, Enfield.

The No Smoking at the Gates initiative is the brainchild of parent governor Marina Haque and the children launched the scheme on Friday with a day spent learning more about the health risks linked to smoking. They invited parents to the event to tell them about the scheme, which has the backing of Enfield Council.

Pupils worked on projects to reinforce the message to encourage people to stop smoking and looked at the effects of passive smoking, the health risks and the financial cost of the habit.

Their work included raps, posters and fact files, along with a drama that shows the impact of peer pressure.

The children also created a pledge wall in the playground featuring their views on smoking and their messages will be moved into the school reception, where it can be seen by visitors.

Ms Haque said: "Although a ban on smoking at the school gates cannot be legally enforced, children will be asking their own parents politely to stop smoking there."

"At all times the children will be polite when they approach their parents and we are confident that they will cooperate with the children's wishes."

In case people forget, the children also unveiled a plaque reminding people to stub it out.

Headteacher Paul Barraclough said everyone at the school was making a huge effort to learn about smoking and share their knowledge, adding: "I am sure that the parents will understand and respond."

Call it quits: Pupils Yash Kavia, Silan Eren and Atsaya Veerasingam at the launch of the campaign

Over-50s lead the way with falls awareness day

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

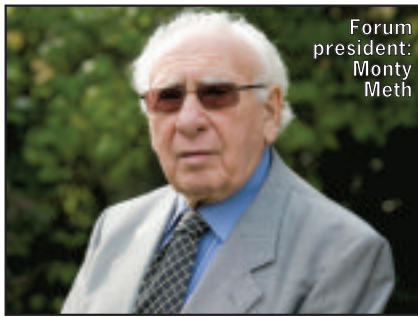

FALLS suffered by elderly Enfield residents resulted in more than 5,000 emergency admissions to hospitals at a cost to the NHS of nearly £13million, the borough's forum for over-50s has disclosed.

The Enfield Over 50s Forum revealed the data in the run-up to its annual Falls Prevention and Awareness Day, which is taking place this year on Monday, from 10am to 3pm, at Edmonton Leisure Centre, in Plevna Road.

The aim of the event is to prevent old folk becoming one of the 4,215 falls victims treated last year at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, and the 1,020 people admitted to the accident and emergency department at Barnet Hospital.

"Not a day goes by without us being told the NHS is short of money, doctors and nurses," said the forum's president Monty Meth.

"Emergency admissions for fractures and broken bones cost North Mid £10,137,372 last year, while they cost Barnet and Chase Farm hospitals £2,638,079.

Forum president: Monty Meth

"In fact, 62 per cent of falls seen by North Mid were for patients aged 65 and over."

The Falls Awareness Day will feature talks, stalls and information to help people stay active and healthy and improve their balance.

There will also be free taster sessions for yoga, pilates, tai chi, easyline and zumba gold dancing, aqua aerobics, aromatherapy and Indian head massage – all geared towards avoiding future falls, trips and slips.

"The day is about saving more older people from falls that can have serious life-changing results, such as becoming fearful of going out," added Mr Meth.

"It is about trying to stop people who have suffered one fall from having another. Falling is not an inevitable result of getting older.

"Falls happen for a reason and our forum wants to see that all surgeries in Enfield keep a register detailing every patient that has fallen and how their progress is being monitored."

The event is free and includes a sandwich lunch, but to make sure of a place you must book in advance.

Boyband tribute act has got it covered...

A striking resemblance:
Only One Direction in action

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of devoted young girl fans of mega-boyband One Direction are set to scream the house down at Potters Bar's Wylyotts Theatre this Friday, not for the actual group, but for a cover band of their 1D heartthrobs.

The old adage "accept no substitute" will be lost on the excited youngsters as concerts by lookalike impersonators Only One Direction often attract the same hysterical frenzy from dedicated fans as the genuine article.

The cover act may not be the real deal, but it doesn't stop Directioners (as the real band's followers are called) going crazy at their shows and meet-and-greets.

The members of Only One Direction are all professional performers in their own right, having appeared in West End stage shows and even X-Factor.

Formed three years ago, they have performed to more than a quarter of a million people, with sell-out concerts in Britain, Ireland, Australia, the Arab Emirates and Malaysia.

Their show captures the high-energy concerts of their famous counterparts and features songs from all four of One Direction's smash-hit albums including What Makes You Beautiful, Story of My Life, Best Song Ever, Midnight Memories, Steal My Girl and many more.

Despite One Direction star Zayn Malik's decision to quit the boyband earlier this year, the cover act have stuck with a five-person line-up.

Jamie Searls, 25, who has played him since 2012, said: "People remark on a passing resemblance between Zayn and I, but the truth is we're not trying to be a lookalike band. That would be a little token tribute."

And he added: "It can get a little crazy. In Dubai, we had to have security and had to be moved to avoid crushing crowds."

A rapturous return for dinosaurs

JURASSIC WORLD
(12A, 130 mins)

BASED on characters created by Michael Crichton, this fourth instalment of the blockbusting dinosaur franchise returns to ill-fated Isla Nublar, where the Jurassic World theme park is open and functioning under the control of the Patel Corporation. Operations manager Claire Dearing (Bryce Dallas Howard) oversees the park on a daily basis including laboratories where scientists are playing God by performing genetic modification experiments to breed a new dinosaur: the ferocious and highly intelligent Indominus Rex. When this hulking beast escapes confinement and goes on the rampage in a park crowded with terrified tourists, animal wrangler Owen Grady (Chris Pratt) races to the rescue. Unfortunately, other species also escape from their electrified pens and turn on each other in a battle for supremacy. Claire's young nephews, Zach (Nick Robinson) and Gray (Ty Simpkins), are caught in the middle of the prehistoric bloodbath and would make a tasty snack for the rampaging Indominus Rex. Faced with the terrifying prospect of dinosaurs escaping from the island and reaching the mainland, Claire and Owen join forces with surviving Patel Corporation staff to contain the carnage, even if that means slaying every reanimated creature on Isla Nublar.

Pint-sized perfection

By Iain Dooley

BASED on the latest three-door bodystyle, the hottest Mini on sale seeks to challenge the notion that only conventional hot hatches can deliver the appropriate thrills to satisfy the demands of serious petrolheads. The presence of the John Cooper Works branding is no lightweight marketing exercise, however.

In a bid to ensure the car's considerable hype is matched by genuine ability, BMW has ramped up the horsepower count to a sizeable 228bhp. That won't trouble the hyper hatches from Ford, Vauxhall and Renault, but it's still enough for rapid progress over a challenging B road. Changes to the car's ride, exhaust system and the inclusion of additional performance-focused driver modes complete the transformation.

The latest generation three-door Mini is a beefy-looking car in its own right, but the JCW additions do much to further boost its appeal among keen drivers. New bumpers fore and aft are both attractive and, in the case of the front item, also prove functional by increasing much needed airflow. The obligatory John Cooper Works branding is subtle but effective, while the car's purposeful stance easily sets it apart from the not-much-slower Cooper S.

If you want to combine speed with genuine family-friendly space, you'll be better served by the five-door Cooper S. For everyone else, the three-door JCW offers ample cabin space up front, with useable space in the back for children. This car is all about the driving experience, which means the ownership experience will contain a few compromises, namely rear seat access and boot space. The upside is a car that's easy to park and fits right into the cut and thrust of city life.

Forget any grumbles about modest rear legroom as this is what the Mini JCW is all about. In auto gearbox trim as tested here, the car offers easy-as-pie urban motoring and brutal race car levels of efficiency away from the city limits.

The result is a blisteringly quick car displaying a pleasing, confidence-inspiring and progressive character – just what you need when grip levels are marginal, or for those times when you want to lean on the car to extract maximum performance. All the while, you're serenaded by a genuinely naughty exhaust note, complete with pops, bangs and a mischievous growl that wouldn't be out of place on something with twice the number of cylinders.

As befits a flagship Mini, the JCW attracts a premium over its slower stablemates. Only you can decide if it's worth the extra cash, but there's no denying that the pint-sized motor looks and feels special. Assuming you're sensible, running costs shouldn't be too bad, although don't expect textbook fuel consumption if you push on.

If you're tired of the stereotypical hot hatch, the Mini JCW possesses a more extrovert character, boasts plenty of distinctive styling details and offers ample performance for fast road driving, yet is composed enough to flatter moderately talented drivers.

If you're suitably talented, the car is surprisingly effective, thanks in part to the progressive nature of the various driver aids. Crucially, the JCW looks and sounds the part. Its appearance is the right side of macho while the specially tuned exhaust delivers the expected pops, bangs and snarls you'd expect from a genuinely exotic sports car.

Public Notices

LICENSING ACT 2003
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR A PREMISES LICENCE
Notice is hereby given that: Brazil Grill Ltd has applied to the Licensing Authority of London Borough of Haringey for a Premises Licence to permit: Sale of Alcohol On and Off Licence from Monday to Sunday from 11:00 to 23:00 and Late Night Refreshment Monday to Sunday from 23:00 to 00:00, for the premises: Samba Grill, situated at 643 Seven Sisters Road, London N15 5LE.
A register of the licensing applications can be inspected at Licensing Team, Enforcement Service, Technopark, Ashley Road, Tottenham, N17 9LN.
Any person wishing to submit relevant representations concerning this application must give notice in writing to the London Borough of Haringey, Licensing Team at the above address, giving in details the grounds of the representation no later than: 28th June 2015.
The Council will not entertain representations where the writer request that is identify maintain anonymous. Copies of all representations will be included in the papers presented to the Licensing Authorities Sub Committee and will therefore pass into public domain. Representations must relate to one or more of the four Licensing Objectives: The prevention of Crime and Disorder; public safety; the prevention of public nuisance and the protection of children from harm.
It is an offence liable on conviction to a fine up to £5000 under the section 158 of the Licensing Act 2003 knowingly or recklessly to make a false statement in connection with an application.
Dated this: 1st Day June 2015

LONDON BOROUGH OF ENFIELD LICENSING ACT 2003
Notice of Application For New Premises Licence or Club Premises Certificate Application
NOTICE IS GIVEN that Mr K Azeel has applied to the London Borough of Enfield for a New Premises Licence, licensable activities as follows: Supply of Alcohol at Flaves, 69 Windmill Hill, Enfield, EN2 7AF.
Persons living or involved in a business in the vicinity of the premises or bodies representing them who wish to make a representation against the application, must do so by specifying the grounds of their representation by email to licensing@enfield.gov.uk or in writing to the Licensing Team, PO Box 57, Civic Centre, Silver Street, Enfield, EN1 3XH WITHIN TWENTY EIGHT DAYS FROM THE DATE OF THE APPLICATION MADE ON 4th June 2015.
Petitions shall state on each page the grounds for representation and notice to signatories that the petition will be copied to the applicant. Each page must be dated and signatories must print their full name and address.
On the day after the application is made a completed notice must be exhibited on a conspicuous part of the premises where it can be easily seen and read by persons in the street, 24 hours a day. That notice must be kept exhibited for not less than 28 consecutive days.
It is an offence to make a false statement in connection with an application and a person guilty of an offence is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level five on the standard scale.
The application is posted on the Council's website www.enfield.gov.uk under Licensing (L).

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-displays) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertiser to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Determined: Chijindu Ujah says he is working hard to get off to a fast start after finishing sixth in the 100metres

SLOW START HITS SPRINT ACE UJAH

SPRINTER Chijindu Ujah believes he missed a golden opportunity to post another sub-ten second 100metres time at Sunday's Sainsbury's Summer Grand Prix at Birmingham's Alexander Stadium.

Last year Ujah became the fifth British man to dip below the ten-second mark and establish himself as one of the country's finest sprint talents.

And with favourable conditions in the Midlands, the stage was set for the 21-year-old Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club ace to reaffirm his talents against a strong field that included fellow Brits Adam Gemili and Richard Kilty.

But a slow start proved costly and Ujah never recovered as he crossed the finishing line in 10.11 seconds to take sixth place – with Gemili finishing second in 9.97.

Three months ago at the European Indoor Championships in Prague, it was also the start that cost him as he suffered disqualification in the 60m final – but he says he is determined to get it right before the season is over.

"I'm actually gutted to be honest because it was good conditions out there for a quick race," said Ujah.

"I think I rocked back in the set and was a bit twitchy.

"It was 10.11 though and I'll take that considering the start cost me and I didn't get out as quickly as I would have liked.

"All of the guys in there are quick and near enough the same speed, so if you give them a millisecond it can really cost you and usually does.

"I know where I am at and I know I could have gone sub-ten, but unfortunately my start cost me and it always costs me.

"After Prague I just got back to hard work and training. I have been working on my starts, so for me to rock back like that is disappointing, but I'll get it right."

While competition is rife among Britain's men sprinters, Ujah says he is feeling no pressure.

He welcomed Gemili to the sub-ten second club and believes it bodes well for the relay team at this summer's World Championships in Beijing.

"Adam ran a good ten flat in the heat so 9.97 is looking good for our relay and it's 100 per cent good to have another guy sub-ten," he added.

North Middlesex collapse is costly

AFTER winning their first three games in the Middlesex County Cricket Premier League, North Middlesex suffered a second successive defeat at home to Twickenham on Saturday and slipped down from second to fourth place.

Having won the toss and chosen to bat first in the last of the current round of 50-over matches, North Mid collapsed from 110-2 to 122 all out – and the visitors knocked off the runs in 24 overs to clinch an eight-wicket victory.

A third-wicket stand of 97 between Joe Cracknell (50) and Evan Flowers (44) was the only bright spot as North Mid's innings crumbled with Rashid Mullahzadah doing much of the damage with the ball as he took 5-26 while Parminder Singh chipped in with 3-19.

Twickenham had little trouble in securing the 10 points as they eased to 124-2 with Shawn Hicks unbeaten on 48 and sharing an unbroken partnership of 84 with Dan Housego (29 not out). Joel Hughes took 2-34.

□ Hornsey were knocked off the top of the second division as they succumbed to their first defeat, losing by 50 runs at Uxbridge despite a century from the league's leading run-scorer Sean Solia.

Put into bat, the home side declared at 262-8 after 52 overs – and then dismissed Hornsey for 212 with nine balls remaining.

Solia's 121 took his tally for the season over the 400 mark. Prabhjot Singh was Uxbridge's most successful bowler, claiming 4-37.

□ In division three, top-of-the-table Highgate maintained their 100 per cent record by cruising to victory at Bessborough to stretch the lead over second-placed MTSSC to 16 points.

After winning the toss, Highgate soon reduced the home side to 17-4 and bowled them out for 123 in 39.2 overs with Will Brookes taking 4-43, supported by Hashen Ramanayake (3-27) and Craig Gourlay (2-14).

They then experienced few problems in clinching their fifth win in five games, with Chris Arul hitting 55 as they reached 127-2 in 25.2 overs.

Arul put on 70 for the first wicket with Matt Holly (34) and Ramanayake (25 not out) finished off accompanied by Callum Fraser (10 not out).

□ At the other end of the table, North London remain rooted to the bottom with one point after losing a low-scoring match at home to Barnes by 16 runs.

Things looked good for North London as Geoff Jones ripped through the Barnes batting, finishing with the fine figures of 7-30 from 20 overs.

The visitors, having chosen to bat first were all out for 102 in 41.2 overs – but they hit back as Iraq Thomas (6-39) and James Alder (3-19) captured nine wickets between them.

North London, who lost both openers without troubling the scorers, subsided to 86 all out in 26 overs as they slumped to their fourth defeat in five games.

□ This Saturday, North Middlesex are away to Stanmore (11am) while Hornsey are at home to Harrow St Mary's (12.30pm) and Highgate are at home to neighbours North London (12.30pm).

New boys condemn Skolars to defeat

LONDON Skolars suffered their seventh defeat in eight games in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One on Sunday when newcomers Coventry Bears recorded a convincing 46-20 victory at the New River Stadium.

After putting up their best performance to date this season in losing 18-10 to North Wales Crusaders in their previous outing, Skolars found themselves trailing 34-6 at the interval.

The visitors hit back after Matt Cook's fifth-minute try for the Skolars to cross the line six times in the first half.

Richie Hughes, Ben Parry, Jamahl Hunte and

Matt Cooper scored four of the tries, all of which were converted by Dan Parker, who also helped himself to two tries, one of which he converted.

A try from Billy Driver, converted by Marcus Elliot, ended Skolars' 41-minute wait for some points and Jimmy Morgan added a third try for the home side in the closing stages.

But his effort was sandwiched in between scores from Andy Winfield and Reece Chapman Carry for the Bears and Parker added two more goals to take his tally to 22 points.

London Skolars are away to York City Knights this Sunday (3pm).
